The Indian Institute of Management - Tiruchi (IIM-T) is upgrading its infrastructure with the addition of new classrooms, hostels and sports facilities, director Pawan Kumar Singh has said.

"We shifted to our current campus from National Institute of Technology - Tiruchi (NIT-T) in 2017, but by 2021, we realised that we our infrastructure was being strained by our growing needs. So we have built two new 80-seater classrooms, and six more are under construction. I think they will serve us well until 2030," Mr. Singh said speaking to reporters on Friday ahead of the institute's convocation ceremony on March 30.

He added that construction of a hostel with 330 single rooms will begin within a few weeks. "Two floors of this building could be used to accommodate senior executives of management development programmes," he said

The summer and final placements of IIM-T students this year closed on a high note, with approximately 17 recruiting companies returning to the campus, he said.
