A BARREN PEACE

The 2021 ceasefire continuing to hold offers a glimmer of hope in an otherwise bleak Indo-Pak landscape. But will the rumbles around the Indus Waters Treaty raise temperatures again?

COVER STORY

Dark tunnel, elusive light

12/ Despite the 2021 ceasefire lasting over three years, India and Pakistan are yet to resume the diplomatic ties that were broken after Jammu and Kashmir's status was changed in 2019. For any substantive change in the bilateral relationship, Pakistan will perhaps have to make the first move this time.
