THE NEW CYBER SECURITY FRONTIER

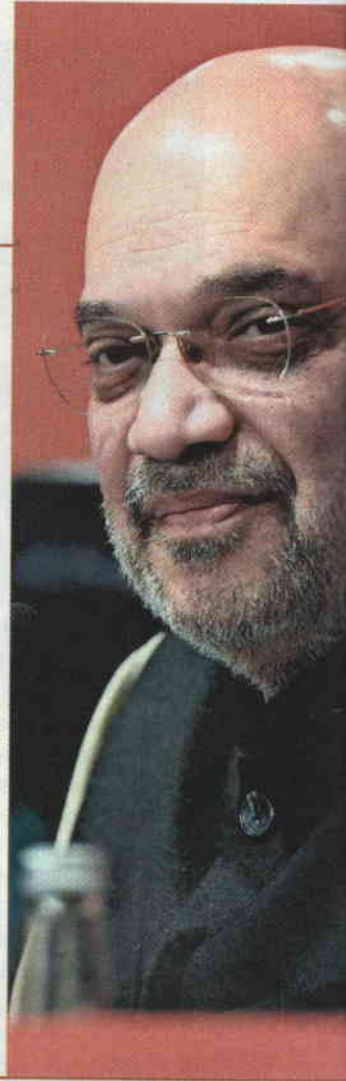

In an exclusive interview with THE WEEK, Union Home Minister Amit Shah acknowledged the transnational nature of cyber crimes. He noted that criminals and hostile nations are increasingly exploring cyber space to defraud citizens, steal intellectual property, compromise networks, and endanger critical infrastructure. Despite the growing challenges, Shah remains confident

“

We have set the goal to establish a special branch of trained cyber commandos to tackle cyber security threats across the country.”

The Modi government has made all-out efforts to build capacity nationwide to tackle the new-age challenge.”

"Kashmir grieves, but it also protects, even in the midst of its darkest hours. The government must seize this moment, enhancing security arrangements without indulging in measures that inconvenience ordinary citizens. By striking the right balance, confidence can be restored, tourists will return, and Kashmir's story of revival can continue unabated."
